Nationals Are Unable to Hit Big Ed Walsh.

GEHRING PITCHES GOOD GAME Chicago at Washington.

Holds the Champions Down for Six Innings, but in the Seventh White Sox Bunch Four Hits Which, with the Aid of an Error, Give Them Two Runs-Two Circus Catches.

White Sox, 3; Nationals, 0.

Despite the enthusiastic support of Sam Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor; Jim O'Connell, president of the International Association of Machinists, and nearly 3,000 other fanatics, our Nationals were unable to stop Fielder Jones' White Sox in their desperate fight to keep in the van in the race for the pennant.

The game was lacking nearly all of the frills and features which made the double header so interesting, for, with the excep tion of three running catches, it was sim ply a duel between Ed Walsh, Chicago' exalted spit-ball artist, and Hank Gehr ing, Cantillon's recruit, who hails from Des Moines.

The honors of the battle went to Walsh although Gehring acquitted himself mos creditably. The Sox got six hits, while the Nationals' share was only four, bu the visitors bunched two-thirds of their Cleveland. bingles in one inning, the seventh, and Boston .. won in characteristic White Sox style. Walsh an Enigma.

Big Walsh held the Nationals safe from barrier to wire. In each of the first four barrier to wire. In each of the lifts rous innings there were Nationals on the base but they died. In the seventh and eighth Washington succeeded in getting by without being retired in order, but the result was the same.

Gehring pitched a good game of ball. For four innings the visitors were retired without the semblance of a safety, but in the fifth Donohue scratched a punk hit toward second base which Delehanty got, but as he was off his balance, he could not whip it to first base in time to retire the runner.

The seventh inning, which is supposed to be the lucky round for the home nine, Chase and Laporte. saw the undoing of Gehring, for the So: got four hits, which, together with a error and a sacrifice, gave them tw runs, and in the ninth Davis led off wit a triple and scored on Rohe's long fly.

Two running catches by Fielder Jon and one by Otis Clymer were the field ing features of the afternoon. In th eighth inning with a man on second ar one out, Ganley rapped the ball over Da vis' head. The clout looked good for a single, but Jones, by a great sprint, grabbed the ball about a foot from the ground and tossed it to second, completing a double play. This robbed the Nationals of at least one run. In the next by going over into left field and bagging a drive from Anderson's bat. The manager expected Dougherty to take the fly, but when he saw that his team-mates could not get to it, Jones made a dive, speared the ball, and went head over
